has been done using retinoids and alpha-hydroxy acids (AHAs) together. Scientific results are showing that they bind together, and that binding increases the effectiveness of both the ingredients. Look out for more products coming out that take advantage of this synergy (the newest peptides also take advantage of natural synergies).

Antioxidants are a vital inclusion in your skincare regimen, as they fight damage caused by free radicals. There is a vast range of antioxidants currently available, with new ones constantly coming onto the market. With all active ingredients it is about the purity and the amount present in the product that are the keys to effective results.
